Heavy fighting and burning in Chittagong

By MARTIN ADENEY

Japanese ships anchored at the port of Chittagong yesterday afternoon reported big fires raging in the town and said that the city was in the hands of the invading forces. The reports were confirmed by the US military authorities, who said that the Japanese had captured Chittagong.

The Japanese attack on Chittagong was one of several reported in recent days. The city of Chittagong is located in the eastern part of Bangladesh and is a major port for the country.

The US military authorities said that the Japanese had occupied the city without resistance. They also said that the Japanese were using heavy weapons in their attack.

The US military was quick to respond to the Japanese attack, launching air strikes against Japanese positions in the area.

The news of the Japanese capture of Chittagong was met with shock and outrage throughout the world. Many countries have already expressed their support for the people of Bangladesh and have called for an end to the conflict.

Impact

The capture of Chittagong is a significant development in the ongoing conflict between Bangladesh and Pakistan. The US military has been providing support to Bangladesh in its struggle against Pakistan.

The US military has been providing military aid to Bangladesh, including arms and training. The US military has also been providing humanitarian aid to the people of Bangladesh.

Principles

The US military has been clear in its support of Bangladesh in its struggle against Pakistan. The US military has said that it will continue to support Bangladesh as long as it is necessary.

The US military has also been clear in its support of the people of Bangladesh. The US military has said that it will continue to support the people of Bangladesh as long as they need it.

The US military has been working closely with the people of Bangladesh to provide them with the support they need. The US military has been providing humanitarian aid to the people of Bangladesh, as well as military aid.

The US military has been clear in its support of the people of Bangladesh. The US military has said that it will continue to support the people of Bangladesh as long as they need it.