Tunku calls on Yahya

(Continued from page 1)

arrangement had been made. He denied that he was on some kind of meditation. I am out of politics now. I have now devoted myself to religious affairs. However, if asked, I will be happy to offer myself to do whatever little I can on this matter.

As a comment on suspension of economic aid to Pakistan by some countries, the Tunku said I don’t think it is right. He was received on his arrival by the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Sultan Mohammad Khan and other Pakistanis.

Arrangements for resettlement

Tunku Abdul Rahman will head a six-member delegation of Muslim countries to East Pakistan to seek for himself the arrangements made by the Pakistan Government for the reception and resettlement of the displaced persons.

Tunku’s delegation which is to lead includes among others, Sheikh Mohammad al-Abdullah al-Moulid, Ambassador of Saudi Arabia in Pakistan, Mr. Aza Taqavi, acting head of the Pakistan's Mission to the United Nations, and Mr. Sulaiman Abu Ghosh, Charge D’Affaires of Kuwait in Islamabad.

On Monday morning, the Secretary-General of the Islamic Conference will call on the President, Mr. M. M. Ahmad. Later, he will be taken in a bus to the location of the Secretariat building. On the way, he will be given a full tour of the Secretariat building.

Gen Niazi visits Shepur

(Continued from page 1)

The Indian Army, he said, had to keep its army on the border because of the threat posed by the Indian Army.

Mr. Ahmad, reported by the Pakistan News Agency, said that the Indian Army had been forced to keep its army on the border because Pakistan had committed to that purpose.

He denied that the 40,000 former Pakistani soldiers were being trained by the Indian Army and also that the Indian authorities were spreading rumours which made the refugees fear to return home.

During the evening debate held by the UN Economic and Social Council, other delegates—notably from New Zealand and the Soviet Union—tried to head off the flow of bitter words between the Indian and Pakistani delegations.

There were some questions to be asked and the council should discuss the human rights aspects of the problem.

There were no reservations taken at the end of the session but the last speaker, the delegate from the Gaza strip, said that there had been a lot of fighting and the council should discuss the humanitarian aspects of the problem.

Tangail

Earlier General Niazi landed at Tangail where he was briefed by the local Commanders.